Getting Started

Register and Sign in

We recommend registering on Taylor & Francis Online to get the most from the website. You can do this by clicking on 'Register' at the top of the page and entering your details.

The screenshot shows the Taylor & Francis Online registration page. The header includes the logo, navigation links for 'Log In', 'Register', and 'Cart', and a search bar. The main content area is titled 'Registration' and contains a form with the following fields: 'Your email address', 'Confirm email address', 'Your full name', 'Your job title', 'Your organisation', 'Select a Country', 'Password', and 'Confirm password'. There are checkboxes for 'I agree to the terms and conditions' and 'I have read and agree to the Taylor & Francis Group privacy policy'. A 'Register' button is at the bottom left. On the right side, there is a section for 'Already have an account?' with a 'Log in now' button, and a section for 'Institutional accounts' with a link to 'support@tandfonline.com'.

To use the platform after you register, simply sign in with your email address and password.

Share and Recommend Content

Taylor & Francis Group is dedicated to ensuring we meet your needs by continuously improving the Taylor & Francis Online platform.

Many key features are available when visiting a journal's homepage or an article page.

Share

You have the option to share links via social media, on over 200 platforms. On an article page, simply select the icon you wish to use.

Download Citations

You also have the option to download citations. These can then be imported by citation management software including EndNote, ProCite, RefWorks and Reference Manager.

Sign up for Alerts

Sign up for new issue alerts using the 'New content alerts' button on journal homepages and article pages. You can choose to subscribe to email alerts and RSS feeds.

Google Translate

The 'Google Translate' button is another key feature of the site, enabling you to explore articles in your chosen language. Select the relevant language from the dropdown list on article pages.

People Also Read

This feature is available on the right hand side of the article page, and it allows you to find popular articles that your peers are already reading that may be of interest to you.

Open Access

Taylor & Francis Online has a dedicated open access page which features videos on open access.

Altmetrics

For all articles published after January 2012, Altmetric data is viewable on individual article pages, simply by clicking on 'Metrics'. Within the 'Metrics' page, click on the Altmetric badge and see how people are engaging with research articles through mentions in newspapers, magazines, blogs, social media, policy documents, and post-publication peer review sites.

CrossMark

CrossMark, developed by CrossRef, is designed to help you quickly determine whether the document you're viewing is the most recent version, and whether it's the publisher-maintained copy. By applying CrossMark to our articles, Taylor & Francis is committing to maintain the content we publish and to alert readers to changes if and when they occur.

Simply click on the CrossMark logo on the article pages to get updates and verify authenticity.

A screenshot of the CrossMark verification panel. At the top, it says 'CrossMark' in a green bar. Below that, a green checkmark icon is followed by the text 'Document is current'. Underneath, a green bar contains the text 'Any future updates will be listed below'. The main content area shows the title 'Principle and application of plant mutagenesis in crop improvement: a review', the CrossRef DOI link 'https://doi.org/10.1080/13102818.2018.1467333', the publication date 'Published: 2018-01-02', and the update policy 'https://doi.org/10.1080/tandf_crossmark.01'. At the bottom, there are three expandable sections: 'Authors', 'Funding', and 'More Information', each with a right-pointing arrow.

The page features a blue header with the 'informa' logo and navigation links for 'Log in' and 'Register'. Below the header is a search bar with the text 'Discover. Learn. Share.' and a search icon. A search bar also contains the text 'Enter keywords, authors, DOI etc.' and a magnifying glass icon. Below the search bar, it says '3,500,000+ articles'. The main content area is titled 'Browse by your specialist subject' and lists various academic disciplines in two columns. The disciplines listed include: Area Studies, Arts, Behavioral Sciences, BioScience, Built Environment, Computer Science, Development Studies, Earth Sciences, Economics, Finance, Business & Industry, Education, Engineering & Technology, Environment & Agriculture, Environment and Sustainability, Food Science & Technology, Geography, Health and Social Care, Humanities, Language & Literature, Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Nursing & Allied Health, Museum and Heritage Studies, and Physical Sciences.

Knowledge on the Move

Users can continue to access knowledge on the move. Taylor & Francis Online is now fully responsive across all pages on the site. This means that content flows intelligently into any tablet or mobile device, menus and actions are appropriate for each screen size, and the reading experience is delightful and familiar.

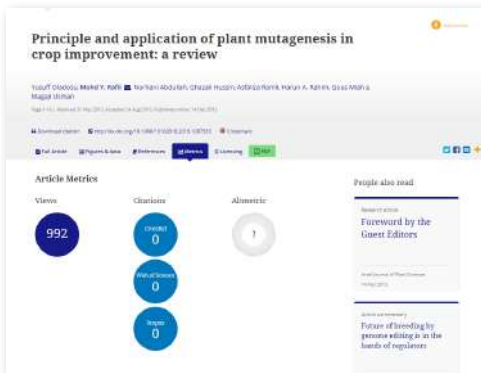

Toll-free Linking

Toll-free Linking gives you free access to Taylor & Francis journal articles that are referenced by articles published in the Taylor & Francis journals that you subscribe to. It also applies to all of our open access journals and all articles published open access under the open select model.

DataCite Linking

Authors are increasingly opting to submit their supporting data to a repository, and in many cases they're required to do so as a condition of their funding. We've now made that data more accessible through bi-directional linking that takes users from the article to the related data and back again.

The DataCite link has been added to article abstracts. Where an author has deposited data to a repository supported by DataCite, a link to the data will appear under the article abstract, and where an author has deposited data to multiple repositories, links to all repositories will appear in a pop-up.

Additional Citation Source

To more accurately reflect the true number of citations an article has received, figures from the Web of Science® and Scopus are displayed on Taylor & Francis Online, alongside the existing CrossRef citation counts. Article citation counts can differ between Web of Science®, CrossRef and Scopus.

When a citation count is available from the sources, it will display next to the article with the source identified on both table of contents pages and on article pages. Simply select 'Metrics' on the individual article page to view any citations.
